Excerpt from An Oration on Messiah s Kingdom, and Descant on Time and Immortality: With a Variety of Poetry on Moral and Religious Subjects; Volume for 1875 Man, In his dread dilemma, cursed of his God, and driven from the garden by the avenging sword guarding the forbidden tree, becomes a sad vagrant in his ruined state, sees no star to illume his darkness, no aid to cheer his fallen soul. The curse of a broken law remains upon him; he is covered with wounds and bruises, and the fires of Mount Sinai make his soul to quake with fear. He looks back, and his load of guilt over shadows him; before him is death temporal and eternal, and no created arm can save him from the fall., He has lost his Eden, the favor of his Lord, and must swell the sad dirge of his temporal and eternal pain. O God! Is this man s doom by heaven s divine decree? But, 10! I hear the ministration of the angel band. The morning stars begin their song of deliverance, and bring hope...
